

Who and what are you citing?

A checklist

‘To cite is political’*

*Francesca Gargallo, Las ideas feministas latinoamericanas, 2a ed. (Ciudad de México: Universidad Autónoma de la Ciudad de México, 2006), p. 9.

- ☐ What is the ratio in your bibliography between sources written by men and by women?
- ☐ Does your bibliography contain sources by academics outside of the Anglo-American context?
- ☐ Are you evidencing engagement with the work of BAME scholars?
- ☐ Do you always reference the same translation of the Bible?
- ☐ Do your references include scholarship from outside of your own church tradition?
- ☐ Is your bibliography dominated by one publisher?

Who are you giving recognition to?
Who has been silenced?
